Which bridal hairstyles suit a round face?

With a round face, try a little height at the crown or a longer strand along one cheek. A low bun with a side part gives a different effect from hair swept straight back. Try both in the mirror.

Try two lengths around your cheek

Hold a front section so its end sits at your cheekbone, then let it fall past your chin. The same strand draws two different lines around your cheek, and you can compare them without cutting your hair.
