How can I choose bridal hair to suit my face shape?

Try a style swept away from the face and another with a soft face-framing strand. Then compare height at the crown with fullness at the sides. Front and side photographs make it easier to see which effect you prefer.

Which feature would you like to show?

Pick one feature you like. To see what brings out your cheekbones, for example, tuck a section behind your ear and then let it fall over your cheek. You can do this without putting a name to your face shape.
