Which bridal hairstyles work well on a windy day?

For windy weather, consider a low bun, a braid or a half-up style with the front strands pinned back. Say how long you will be outdoors and whether you will wear a veil so its fastening can be planned accordingly.

Keep a face-framing strand manageable outside

If you love a loose strand near your face, ask whether one side can be arranged so you can tuck it behind your ear when the wind picks up. Practise with earrings and veil in place to find a clear path for the strand.
